DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the amendment filed on 11/09/2009.
2. Applicant argument with respect to claims 11-24 and 29; 25-26, 27-28, 30 and 31 has been fully considered. Examiner hereby withdraws the finality of the previous action per Applicant's argument. In the argument it is noted that multiple arguments were made with respect to the above multiple distinct and independent set of claims. Thus, according to the above argument presented on 11/09/2009, Examiner raises restriction issues as described below:

Election/Restrictions

3. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 11-24 and 29, drawn to a software for generating of a computer code of at least one part of a computer application in which the software generates the said computer code from a description of said at least one part of the computer application by distributing said description between several code generators according to a modifiable distribution rules, each code generator translating the part of said description that it is provided with, classified in class 717, subclass 136.
 - II. Claims 25-26, 27-28, 30 and 31, drawn to a software, organized in classes enabling to define first classes giving access to technical and functional services to be provided by a hardware and software component in which the said services cannot be defined by said language and the other classes cannot have access to any one of these technical or functional except through said first classes, classified in class 717, subclass 108.
4. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I, and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination I has separate utility such as generating the said computer code from a description of said at least one part of the computer application by distributing said description between several code generators according to a modifiable distribution rules, each code generator translating the part of said description that it is provided with, subcombination II has separate utility such as defining first classes giving access to technical and functional services to be provided by a hardware and software component in which the said services cannot be defined by said language and the other classes cannot have access to any one of these technical or functional except through said first classes. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

5. The examiner has required restriction between subcombinations usable together. Where applicant elects a subcombination and claims thereto are subsequently found allowable, any claim(s) depending from or otherwise requiring all the limitations of the allowable subcombination will be examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. See MPEP § 821.04(a). Applicant is advised that if any claim presented in a continuation or divisional application is anticipated by, or includes all the limitations of, a claim that is allowable in the present application, such claim may be subject to provisional statutory and/or nonstatutory double patenting rejections over the claims of the instant application.

6. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

7. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

8. The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

9. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

10. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

11. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
